

Spain and Ukraine claim 14 & Under European Summer Cups titles

66 national teams have taken part in the biggest-ever edition of the 14 & Under European Summer Cups team competitions, with eight nations advancing from the qualifying event to compete at the recent final rounds.

The stakes were high as players battled for their country, for Tennis Europe Junior Tour ranking points, and to secure spots at next month's ITF World Junior Tennis team event.

14 & UNDER BOYS - Murcia, Spain

Buoyed by a home ground advantage in Murcia, the Spanish team coasted to their third victory in six years, following wins in 2012 and more recently in 2015. The host team came through having not lost a tie, and having conceded just two rubbers, in their Zone D qualifying group. They walked away with the trophy after an even more commanding performance, having won every one of their matches at the final rounds.

The Spanish team, composed of Daniel Rincon, Carlos Alcaraz Garfia and Alejandro Correa Linares was commanding throughout the three days. They took out Serbia on the first day 2-0, winning both matches in straight sets. Rincon and Alvarez followed this up with a win on Day 2 over the Czech Republic by the same scoreline, again maintaining a clean sheet.

The Russians were represented by Aristarkh Safonov and Mikhail Gorokhov in the singles, while in the doubles, Safonov played with Robert Korelov. On Day One, they saw off Italy, thanks to a 10-5 championship tie-break win over Luca Nardi and Giorgio Tabacco. Claiming both singles victories over Switzerland on Day 2 meant the Russians would face the Spaniards for the title.

The final was another rout for Spain as they dominated the Russians, again without dropping a set. Rincon ➔

Spain and Ukraine claim 14 & Under European Summer Cups titles

➔ defeated Safanov 6-4 6-1, while Alcaarez took out Gorokhov 7-5 6-2. This is now Spain's fifth title overall in this event since its inception in 1979.

The Czech Republic beat Switzerland 2/0 to claim the bronze medals.

14 & UNDER GIRLS – San Remo, Italy

The Ukrainian girls' team was able to successfully defend its title, with solid performances from the team. Currently ranked number 55 on the 14 & Under rankings, Dasha Lopatetskaya was instrumental for Ukraine as she remained undefeated over the weekend to secure the rare feat of playing on a victorious Summer Cups team in two consecutive years.

The team started well with a 3-0 win over Slovakia on Friday. This was backed up by a 2-1 win against Russia on Day 2. In-form number 4 ranked Russian Maria Timofeeva got the better of Lyubov Kostenko in straight sets to send the tie to a deciding doubles, where Lopatetskaya's partner from the victory over Slovakia, Anastasiya Konstantinova Soboleva, was replaced by Kostenko as they sealed the win for Ukraine.

In the final, the Ukrainians ran into a French team who had posted a series of impressive results. They, like Ukraine, started off strong with a 3-0 win over Bulgaria, followed by a 2-1 victory against the Czech Republic, with Elsa Jacquemot winning her singles and teaming with Anaëlle Leclercq to win the doubles and send France into the final.

It was to be the Ukrainians' day as straight sets singles victories went to both Lopatetskaya and Kostenko over Jacquemot and Leclercq respectively. Some pride was salvaged as the French girls took the doubles rubber in a tight 11-9 championship tiebreak decider. The end result though was a 2-1 victory for Ukraine, their second in as many years and their fourth overall, adding to other wins in 2014 and 2009.

Russia later beat the Czech Republic 2/1 to claim the bronze medals.

The 14 & Under Summer Cups also serves as the qualifying event for the ITF World Junior Tennis team competition, which will be held in Prostějov (CZE) from 7-12 August. The top 5 boys' and girls' teams (plus the Czech Republic, as hosts) will qualify for the tournament.

Tennis Europe Board of Management 2017-2020.

European Tennis Trophy presented by David Lloyd Leisure

Germany, France, the Czech Republic and Great Britain have emerged as the leading contenders to win the European Tennis Trophy for overall performance as the season reaches its halfway point. Just 100 points separate Germany from France at the top of the leader board for the award, which is given to recognise the performances of players and teams representing national tennis federations across four disciplines of the sport throughout the season.

Current leaders Germany last won the Overall Performance title in 2014 - its first such prize in 18 years – and is virtually assured of retaining the Senior Tennis title. Such is the German dominance in this category that no other nation has ever won the award, and the country already has more than twice as many points as second-placed Austria. However, with the lion's share of Germany's points already obtained, it is likely that the nation will be overtaken for the top spot before the end of the season by one of the other leading contenders.

Defending champion France won the most recent of its six Overall Performance titles in 2016 and is in a strong position to reclaim the honours, sharing the Professional Tennis leadership with Belarus, and battling for first place in the Wheelchair Tennis category with Great Britain.

Czech Republic won the award for Overall Performance for the first – and so far, only – time in 2012, and has claimed the Professional Tennis Trophy each year since. The nation has started the year strongly, leaping into third position overall and standing in the top 3 in both the Professional and Junior Tennis categories after the first six months.

THE EUROPEAN TENNIS TROPHY IS AWARDED IN RECOGNITION OF THE PERFORMANCES OF PLAYERS AND TEAMS REPRESENTING TENNIS EUROPE'S 50 MEMBER NATIONS ACROSS FOUR DISCIPLINES OF THE SPORT THROUGHOUT THE SEASON.

2015 winner Russia is currently adrift of the leading pack, with just over half the points of the Czechs. However, the nation is a strong favourite to retain the Junior Tennis trophy for a sixth successive year, and good performances at the summer junior team events could yet see them regain the overall top spot.

The first Trophy Race update of 2017 includes all points earned by nations from January to June. Rankings that use a rollover 52-week system are not counted to the point totals at this stage. The final point standings will be announced during the first week of the 2018 season, and the awards presented to national federations at the 2018 Tennis Europe Annual General Meeting.

Full results from last year can be found here, while the Top 5 in each category so far in 2017 are shown in the table below. ●

Interview with Tennis Europe President Vladimir Dmitriev

On March 25th, 2017 Vladimir Dmitriev was elected as just the seventh President in the 40-year history of Tennis Europe. Residing in Moscow, this family man with five children and four grandchildren has taken a different route to the leadership of the largest regional association of the ITF than his predecessors. A Doctor of Economics, Mr. Dmitriev's distinguished career path has included diplomatic roles at the Russian Embassy in Sweden, posts at the Ministry of Finance of the Russian Federation, and more recently the role of Chairman of the Bank for Development and Foreign Economic Affairs. In recent years, he has supervised the construction of Russia's National Tennis Centre, and headed the Board of Guardians of the Russian Tennis Federation. Tennis Europe News took the opportunity to meet with him recently to find out more....

Tell us a little bit about your life and work in tennis, and how you made it to the Presidency of Tennis Europe...

I have been playing tennis for almost 40 years. I've only ever been an amateur, and I started playing tennis when I was living in Stockholm in the early 1980's. We played on the courts of the Kungliga Tennis Hallen and I was lucky enough to play with very good Swedish players and coaches of the time. I was fascinated and had a lot of passion for tennis because they had such wonderful players as Bjorn Borg, Stefan Edberg and Mats Wilander at that time. I never dreamt that I would be acquainted with them, but it occurred. Nowadays I organise an international tournament, called 'Legends of Tennis' in Moscow each June and we invite players such as Borg, who is now a friend of mine, Martina Hingis, Goran Ivanišević, and former Russian professionals, like Marat Safin, Yevgeny Kafelnikov, Anastasia Myskina and Elena Dementieva.

Following my involvement there I was invited to chair the supervisory board of the Russian Tennis Federation, and in this capacity, supported by my role as chair of the Bank for Development, we managed to channel some funds for the junior players of the federation, to sign contracts, offer legal support, coaches and so on. That led me – not only me but the Russian Federation – to be a candidate for the presidency of Tennis Europe, which was another incentive. With my background, my knowledge of the financial sector and of Russian tennis, plus my passion for tennis in general, I have seen a lot of changes that I believe should be introduced to Tennis Europe. And it's not just my opinion – we need a program endorsed by national associations, members of the Board, people who love tennis – they understand that changes adequate to the challenges need to be put into effect. My program was based on these ideas, needs and wishes, and fortunately got the support of the member nations in Sochi.

What do you see as the priorities for Tennis Europe right now?

I think that the main focus should be placed on financial issues, supported by a more comprehensive sponsorship program. Member nations should make their own contributions and participate to this process, not only Tennis Europe and its management. One of the great values of our association is the Tennis Europe Junior Tour, which we must develop further. One idea that was introduced by several member nations and supported by the congress was to consider the possibility to launch Tennis Europe's own professional tournament. And of course, development – Tennis Europe is represented by various nations with different capacities and we have to develop tennis in those areas that currently are lagging behind. ➔

Interview with Tennis Europe President Vladimir Dmitriev

➔ We might think about introducing our own development fund which is a well-supported idea. We are working closely with the ITF on these issues, but we have the potential to create more substantial assistance for funding less-developed nations. Of course, education is also important. We have many kids who are under 14 who consider themselves as future Nadals or Serena Williamses, but very few of them will become stars. They should understand that their life is something that they should take care of, not only in tennis terms, but also outside of tennis.

Do you think there's something we can learn at Tennis Europe from the success of the Russian Federation in recent years?

I know that the school of [RTF President] Shamil Tarpishev is something unique and that can be shared with other nations. I am very much in favour generally of exchanging ideas and information, and getting people together, which will help our organisation to be united and to be strongly positioned within the tennis universe.

“WE SENT MEMBER NATIONS A STRONG MESSAGE OF WHAT WE’LL DO, AND WHERE OUR PRIORITIES ARE, AND WHAT WE EXPECT IN THE NEAR FUTURE...”

How would you evaluate your first few months as President?

Well, there are some positives and negatives. On one hand, we made a lot of progress in upgrading the communication level with the member nations. They know the results of the first Board meetings. We sent them a strong message of what we’ll do, and where our priorities are, and what we expect in the near future in terms of communication with the members. But I think that the nations anticipate some more obvious, efficient moves, from the management and the Board. We have important issues to deal with next at the ITF AGM in Vietnam, and then also in Budapest at the next Board meeting.

For me as still kind of an outsider, I’m a little nervous about feedback from member nations and encourage them to participate as much as possible. I’ve spent many hours exchanging emails and giving my thoughts and reading correspondence. I am pretty happy with the way that the management deals with the president – it’s an ongoing correspondence. My responsibility is to give proper feedback, not only to the management but also to the Board.

Were you satisfied with the committee nominations that have been received?

I think everybody is happy, yes, because we will have a very diverse membership of the committees. Most of the member nations have nominated someone, and it is important that they have their voice. We saw many new names in the nominations, which is also good. Now the most important thing is to get those committees working properly, to have regular meetings and to get these committees working closely with the respective Chairman, vice-presidents and the management. It’s challenging because we cannot just consider my program and our new strategy separately from what respective committees are doing. It has to be a coherent work and a joint endeavour and a challenge for everyone.

The board itself is very diverse this time...

Yes, that’s very important. The beauty of this board and the advantage of it is that it creates sustainability because there are some members of the previous board, plus new members, which is a very good combination. None of them are newcomers to the tennis world, but all have different backgrounds and experience.

At the AGM, you surprised everyone when you took the stage to perform a song at the official dinner. Is that a hidden talent you will deploy regularly?

[Laughs] Well, it comes from the heart. I enjoy good company very much: to have a drink and a sing and a dance, it’s a type of communication. I remember in 2015, in Ufa, Russia had the Chair of the New Development Bank of Brics countries, and I as chairman of the interbank union of the BRICS countries banks for development hosted a dinner at a nice venue, and that evening we all sang and each delegation performed their national song. We all became very good friends; it was a crucial point in our relationships. That’s the proof that this kind of social engagement and social touch is very important. ●

European Beach Tennis Championships Entries

A total of 112 doubles pairings from a record 22 nations have so far confirmed entries for the 10th edition of the European Beach Tennis Championships, which are set to be held at the Santa Marina Holiday Village in Sozopol, Bulgaria from 8-10 September.

Well over 150 players are expected to take part in the Championships, which consists of men's, women's and mixed doubles competitions. For a second successive year, the event will also host a junior tournament, which will be held alongside the pros, for players aged 18 & Under.

The national entry list is led by Italy, whose teams have dominated the past editions of the tournament, winning the men's and women's gold medals at all previous events, and sweeping last year's inaugural junior competition. Last year's tournament saw victories for Luca Cramarossa & Marco Garavini and Sofia Cimatti & Flavia Daina in the men's and women's doubles respectively.

Russia – being the only other nation to have so far snatched a gold medal, in the mixed doubles in 2016 – is also likely to field some strong teams, with France, San Marino and Spain amongst the other leading contenders for success. As Beach Tennis continues to surge in popularity, Latvia and Slovakia will both be competing at the event for the first time.

The host nation will also have high hopes and is able to nominate one additional team in each competition. 2017 marks the second successive year that the event will be hosted by the Bulgarian Tennis Federation.

Full player nominations will be revealed after the nomination deadline on 8th August. For the full entry list and further information, please click here.

Success for ITF/Tennis Europe 16 & Under Grand Slam Touring Team

This year the ITF/Tennis Europe 16 & Under Junior Grand Slam Touring Team undertook a tour of Europe and North Africa. The team consisted of 4 girls and 3 boys and was taken by the ITF coaches Anna Britton and Aleksander Jürgens. The girls' team consisted of Sena Zeyneb Sariloglan (TUR), Anna Gröss (AUT), Carol Plakk (EST) and Ana Ristevska (MKD) and the boys were Nemanja Malesevic (BIH), Sergios Kyzas (CYP) and Karlis Ozolins (LAT).

After meeting up in Milan, the first port of call took the team to the friendly club of Biella in Italy, where the players undertook a clay court training camp ahead of the Tennis Europe 16 & Under Category 1 tournament. The camp focused on tactical play, doubles and fitness training, and on this occasion also helped the players to get used to the hot weather conditions that were occurring.

On the girls' side in this first tournament Ana Ristevska and Carol Plakk came out the strongest in the singles, reaching the quarter finals. As a new pairing in the doubles Carol Plakk & Zeyneb Sena Sarioglan did a skillful job of making it to the finals and narrowly missed out on the title, losing the match 7-5 6-7(2) 10-8 to Kiara Ondrejcekova (SVK) & Oksana Selekhmeteva (RUS). In the boys tournament, Sergios Kyzas had to face a stadium full of Italians and press in his first tournament as he was playing an Italian local. It was a new experience and became a little daunting in the second set but will surely prove to be a useful learning experience, as he lost out in a long three set match to Gabrielle Feline (ITA) 2-6 6-3 6-4. Nemanja Malesevic reached the second round in singles and together with Karlis Ozolins had a tight semi final doubles match, eventually losing out in three sets 4-6 6-4 10-5 to the higher seeded Mikolaj Lorens & Dawid Taczala from Poland.

For the second week of tournaments, the team headed to the Tennis Europe Category 1 tournament in Foligno, Italy, and continued its successful journey. Ana Gröss came out top in the girls' singles, reaching the quarter finals before falling to Gemma Lairon Navarro (ESP) 6-0 6-1. Zeyneb Sena Sarioglan & Ana Ristevska had a great doubles tournament, making it to the final where they lost to home pair Maribor Marioni & Giulia Tedesco 6-3 6-0.

In the boys' event Karlis Ozolins went the furthest, losing in the third round to Mateo Vereau Melendez (PER) 6-3 6-1. But the team of Sergios Kyzas & Nemanja Malesevic came out top in this tournament, putting in a great effort to win the doubles final 7-5 6-4 against Vereau Velendez and his Peruvian compatriot Sebastian Rodrigues.

The next stop was Tunisia, for the ITF grade 4 events, and the first tournament was in the town of Kelibia. This was a great event for Carol Plakk, who won both the singles and doubles titles, despite being unseeded. Carol paired up again with Zeyneb Sena Sarioglan in doubles, beating the Turkish no 1 seeds, Zeynep Erman & Zeynep Sonmex 6-2 6-1. Carol's singles was a tough affair but she came through winning 7-6(3) 7-6(1) against Daniella Dimitrova (BUL). Anna Gröss won through qualifying with a couple of good wins to start her off on her pathway to an ITF ranking. Ana Ristevska had a close three-set match with Pastigarra Harper (ESP) who went on to the quarter finals losing out to Carol Plakk.

This was a good tournament for Nemanja Malesevic who reached his first ITF Juniors semifinal before losing to the eventual winner Tomas Kopczynski (USA). Sergios Kyzas reached the second round, winning the first ITF Juniors singles main draw match of his career. ➔

➔ Kyzas & Malesevic tried to continue their winning streak in doubles, but lost a tight first round match against the eventual winners of the tournament Harry Butler & Barney Fitzpatrick (GBR) 7-6(5) 2-6 10-5. The Team's final week was in Mahdia, Tunisia. In the first round Carol Plakk had to meet her opponent from the previous week's final, Daniella Dimitrova (BUL), but managed to pull off another win in three sets 6-2 2-6 7-6(3). She then lost out to a strong opponent in Jade Bornay (FRA) 6-4 2-6 6-1 who played particularly well and who Anna Gröss had lost to in the previous round in a tough half of the draw. For the first time the girls did not make the doubles final; Carol Plakk & Zeyneb Sena Sarioglan lost out in the semi-finals to the eventual winners Kateryna Zadorozhna (UKR) & Joanne Zuger (SUI) 6-2, 4-6, 10-5.

On the boys team Nemanja Malesevic had a particularly good week again getting to the semifinals in singles before falling to Benjamin Bencic (SUI) 6-4 6-2 but helping him move up the rankings. Sergios Kyzas had a good win in the first round over Adam Nagoudi from Tunisia but lost out to Harry Butler (GBR) in the 2nd round. Malesevic had reached the semi finals in the doubles but his partner was injured so they had to give the opponents a walkover, while the pairing of Sergios Kyzas & Karlis Ozolins lost out to American pair William Grant & Tomas Kopczynski in the quarter finals in a tight match 7-6(4) 6-2 but this USA paring went on to win the title.

The team coaches commented: "Over the trip we came away with ITF Grade 4 girls singles and doubles titles, and one Tennis Europe Category 1 boys doubles title. The girls reaching the two other Tennis Europe Category 1 doubles finals, two ITF boys' singles semifinals, and a big move in ranking points for some of the players. The trip proved educational to the players in managing their time, diet and fitness in accordance to their matches. There was a great learning curve in being part of a group and pulling together. Players responded well to the tactical information given to them and we saw a big improvement in play throughout the 5 weeks from the start of the training camp to the final tournament, which also showed in the results. It has been a pleasure working with these players and we wish them all the best with their future careers." ●

2017 European Summer Cups and Nations Challenge by HEAD Preview

The remaining events of Tennis Europe's outdoor junior team competitions are set to take place in the coming weeks, with the 12, 16 and 18 & Under titles still up for grabs.

The events kick off with the 12 & Under Tennis Europe Nations Challenge by HEAD, which is due to be held from 27-30 July (qualifying) and 10-13 August (final rounds). A total of 58 national teams have entered the 11th edition of the tournament, which was last year won by France (boys) and Russia (girls).

96 national teams will be in action at the 16 and 18 & Under European Summer Cups, with the qualifying competition staged from 2-4 August and eight teams progressing to the final rounds held from 7-9 August.

In 2016 Russia swept the 16 & Under events to become the first nation ever to win all of Tennis Europe's team events in a single age category in the same year, having also won the indoor Winter Cups by HEAD earlier in the year. Russia later added the Girls' 18 & Under title, while France claimed the 18 & Under Boys' trophy in Veska.

The 16 & Under European Summer Cups events also serve as the region's qualifying event for the Junior Davis Cup and Junior Fed Cup by BNP Paribas competitions, Russia's victorious Girls' 16 & Under team celebrates its win in 2016.

the finals of which will be held in Budapest from 19-24 September.

The European Summer Cups are Tennis Europe's oldest competition, with several events pre-dating the founding of the organisation. Novak Djokovic, Rafael Nadal, Kim Clijsters, Justine Henin and Stefan Edberg are just a few of the former world #1s to have played on victorious Summer Cup teams.

Full details of dates, venues and the repartition of nations can be found below. For fact sheets and further information, please visit www.tenniseurope.org.

TENNIS & SCHOOL PROGRAM

Sponsored by Jeremy Chardy, our Tennis and Study program, launched 10 years ago, offers our students both a high level athletic training and an outstanding academic education. Our program enables to harmoniously combine intensive training, tournaments and school curriculum.

The goal is to enable our students to build a long term project around sports and education, leading to a professional tennis career or to the enrollment into an American University sports program.

To achieve these goals, our teaching, not limited to the tennis court or classroom, seeks to increase self-assurance, appreciate hard work and the meaning of sacrifice. At the end of their education, our students become responsible adults with a shining career, they will have the opportunity to become professional players and/or graduate from an American University.

Muguruza & Federer lead the way as European players sweep Wimbledon titles Garbiñe Muguruza and Roger Federer have been crowned 2017 Wimbledon champions. The Spanish number 1 player will move back up into the top five, while Federer yet again rewrites history to claim his nineteenth Grand Slam singles title.

History often has a strange way of repeating itself, and that was the case on Saturday. Muguruza emulated her compatriot and friend-cum-coach, Conchita Martinez in defeating a 37-year old American, and perhaps sentimental favourite, in the final. Going toe-to-toe for the first nine games, Venus Williams set herself up brilliantly to take the first set, obtaining two break points at 5-4. Muguruza rallied and Venus stumbled, allowing the Spaniard to equalise. From there, her confidence went from strength to strength, along with her shotmaking, while Williams seemed to wilt and flounder. The 7-5 6-0 victory propels Muguruza back into the top five as well as giving her a second Major title. Interestingly, Muguruza has won 4 tour titles - half of them at Grand Slams - and is the first player to beat both Williams sisters in a major final.

The men's final also started off with the players at an even pegging but it too turned out to be a one-sided match in its own way. After falling 3-6 in the first set, Marin Cilic seemed troubled by a foot blister and had his mobility, and emotions, put to the test. After an emotional moment, where tears were shed, Cilic was a shell of the player who won the US Open in 2014. Federer sealed the lacklustre match with an ace for a 6-3 6-1 6-4 win, and with that his eighth Wimbledon trophy. This now places him atop the list of most titles won by a man at the famed club. Martina Navratilova – the player beaten by Martinez in 1994's final – still holds the distinction of being the only player with 9 singles titles overall.

While Cilic's injury will no doubt heal, Federer's decision to skip the clay court season clearly paid dividends. Likewise, Williams has shown that at age 37, she is far from saying goodbye to her tennis career. Muguruza for her part, consolidates her status as a serious contender for multiple grand slam wins and her potential to reach number one.

THE COMEBACKS

After a luke-warm yet self-proclaimed successful comeback at Roland Garros, and a surprise grass court warm-up title in Birmingham, Petra Kvitova was hotly tipped to go all the way at the All England Club. It was not to be, as she was taken out in a tough three-setter in the second round by American Madison Brengle. Victoria Azarenka, for her part, was more successful. While grass has never been her best surface, her comeback seems on track. A tough three-set win over in-form Brit Heather Watson in the third round set her up for a clash with Simona Halep. Azarenka showed great form, but the French Open runner-up was too good on the day.

OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCES

For a second straight year, Sam Querrey also sent shockwaves through the draw. He defeated local hero Andy Murray in a tough five-set quarterfinal, before going down to Cilic in a close four set semi-final battle.

Marin Cilic's year could only get better after a poor start. His confidence grew after a victory in Istanbul and quarterfinals in Rome and Paris. It is unfortunate that his second grand slam final will be marred by memories of injury.

Johanna Konta lived up to home hopes, and perhaps exceeded them, by reaching her maiden Wimbledon semi-final; the first British female to do so since 1977. Giving Venus Williams a good run for her money, Konta showed that she has the potential to go the distance at a major one day.

On the heels of her unexpected French Open win, Jelena Ostapenko also recorded a personal best by reaching the Quarterfinals, also going down to Williams. ➔

➔ Magdalena Rybarikova posted her greatest grand slam result by reaching her first ever Wimbledon semi-final. Perhaps overshadowed by her own moment, the Slovak was not as fearless with her ball striking as in previous matches, but still must be more than satisfied with an 18/2 grass court win/loss record over recent weeks after a protracted absence from the tour due to injury.

Finally, Karolina Pliskova will be number 1 after a steady and consistent year, despite her early loss at Wimbledon. By virtue of Kerber's capitulation to Muguruza and Halep's demise to Konta after being two points away from claiming the top spot herself, Pliskova will become the 23rd women's world number one, and the first ever female Czech national to do so.

DOUBLES

The men's doubles title went to Lukasz Kubot & Marcelo Melo in a marathon win over Oliver Marach & Mate Pavic. After nearly five hours of play, the Polish-Brazilian duo took the title 5-7 7-5 7-6 (7-2) 3-6 13-11.

Following them on to court late on Saturday evening, the women's doubles final was a sprint by comparison. Russia's Ekaterina Makarova & Elena Vesnina silenced Chan Hao-Ching & Monica Niculescu 6-0 6-0 in what they described as a "perfect" tennis match, lasting less than an hour.

Honours in mixed doubles went to top seeds Jamie Murray & Martina Hingis, ensuring a home victory in the event for a second straight year as the British-Swiss combination defeated defending champions Heather Watson & Henri Kontinen of Finland. The win, traditionally the last match of the tournament, ensured that European players had a hand in all of the professional titles won at this year's Championships.

JUNIORS

Spain's Alejandro Davidovich Fokina (pictured) became the country's first boys' champion for five decades with a hard-fought win over Argentine Axel Geller, while Claire Liu won an all-American girls' final over Ann Li.

Geller earned a small measure of consolation, teaming with Taipei's Yu Hsiou Hsu to secure the boys' doubles title over Jurij Rodionov (AUT) and Michael Vrbensky (CZE). The girls' doubles final saw Olga Danilovic (SRB) & Kaja Juvan (SLO) overcome another pair of Americans, Caty McNally & Whitney Osuigwe.

All of the European juniors mentioned above are due to be in action at next week's European 18 & Under Championships in Klosters, Switzerland, a tantalising prospect as for several of them the Tennis Europe flagship event will be their final junior singles tournament. ●

David Lloyd Leisure Eyes Up European Health and Tennis Clubs

The Championships at Wimbledon is always a hectic couple of weeks at Europe's largest health and racquets group, David Lloyd Leisure. Operating over 35% of the UK's indoor tennis courts, every year sees a real buzz across its clubs as members pick up their racquets, inspired by their tennis heroes. With a 23% surge in the number of children participating in tennis and a 27% increase in membership upgrades from fitness to tennis in June compared to last year, David Lloyd Leisure is bucking the trend of a global decline in popularity for the sport.

This year seems busier than ever. The company's 1,000 plus tennis courts have been heavily booked and the club's caf  bars have been packed out with adults and children flocking to watch the key matches. Business is certainly booming at David Lloyd Leisure. It's seen its membership base increase by more than 100,000 to over 570,000 in the past 12 months, fuelled by higher member sales and reduced attrition rates, along with a rapid club new-build and acquisition programme, seeing its estate jump from 94 clubs to 111 in the last 20 months. Its ambitious growth plans show no signs of abating, as the company actively looks to acquire more sites across Europe.

Glenn Earlam, CEO said "Our business has gone through somewhat of a step change in the last four years. Our owners TDR have been significantly investing in the business, and results of that have really come to fruition this year. Our clubs have really burst into life and that was particularly noticeable over this Wimbledon fortnight."

You only have to look at David Lloyd Leisure's heritage to understand why it is the racquet sports' industry leader today. Founded by former tennis star David Lloyd who was passionate about making the sport accessible to a much wider community, and created a pioneering concept of combining fitness and tennis, in a family friendly environment. He opened his first club in Heston in 1981. By 1995 there were 18 clubs in the UK, when the business was bought by British leisure giant Whitbread.

Since then, the business has gone from strength to strength. TDR bought the business in 2013, and has been heavily investing in it. In the last three years it spent a staggering £80m into refurbishing and modernising its existing estate, and building five brand new clubs - Newbury, Rouken Glen, Colchester in the UK, plus Antwerp in Belgium and Aravaca in Madrid, Spain. Of its 111 clubs, 98 of them are in the UK with another 13 across Europe - Holland, Belgium, Spain, Ireland and most recently Italy.

2017 has been a pivotal year for the business. It acquired 14 UK racquets clubs from Virgin Active as well as signing three new deals to acquire two further UK clubs - The Academy Health Club and Spa in Harrogate and The Park Club in Chiswick plus its first Italian site - the Malaspina Club in Milan.

And its ambitions don't stop there. Its goal is to operate 150 clubs by 2026 achieved by consistent growth by around three to five clubs per year with European expansion at the forefront of this strategy.

Glenn commented, "Our teams are out there on the ground looking for opportunities for both new build and acquisition. We're keen to hear from health and racquets clubs who may be interested in selling". ➔

David Lloyd Leisure CEO Glenn Earlam.

David Lloyd Leisure Eyes Up European Health and Tennis Clubs

➔ “Europe is very important for us, and our partnership with Tennis Europe has been instrumental in David Lloyd Leisure understanding the tennis landscape, and especially in countries where the brand is not currently present. Our key differentiator, family health & fitness is a rapidly growing sector and is relatively untapped in Europe. David Lloyd Leisure has a competitive advantage as we are leading the market, which is allowing us to cherry-pick the best opportunities.”

He continues, “All clubs are underpinned by our four strategic pillars – family, depth & breadth of product, quality and what we call ‘clubiness’, a sense of belonging to a place where they can meet new people or relax with friends and family. All combined with a strong base of great service and market leading innovation.”

“We want to be known as more than just a gym or a tennis club. We also offer a wide range of products – indoor and outdoor pools, spas, a range of group exercise studios as well a café bar which forms the heart of our clubs.”

“WE LISTEN CAREFULLY TO EACH LOCAL MARKET AND USE
OUR INDUSTRY KNOWLEDGE TO CREATE AN EXPERIENCE WHICH

David Lloyd Clubs are certainly geared up for families – its offering includes All Stars tennis and swimming, DL Kids, Holiday Active, separate kids zones in its DLicious cafés, soft play areas, family Synrgy classes and now Prima which is the latest innovation in family group exercise. But for those who don't have children or are looking for some peace and quiet from their own, there are peaceful adults lounges, business hubs and adult-only times in the swimming pools and gym, so everyone can enjoy their own version of relaxation.

The company's heritage may be British, but it is very sensitive to the needs of the local market. Earlam said; “We're conscious that we don't want to impose a ‘one size fits all’ model on every new club or market. Family, quality, depth and breadth of our product and ‘clubiness’ may be core to our values, but we listen carefully to each local market and use our industry knowledge to create an experience which is right for them, so they really feel they are a part of it. For example the Germans love their spas, padel in Spain is more important than tennis, and in Italy people love to play cards in the bar. We need to build the experience around what the members of that club tell us that they want.”

“We don't pander to fads. Our hallmark is our core offering of strong family-friendly club environment, cutting edge advice, equipment and classes and an inclusive ‘clubby’ environment that remains true to the local market.”

David Lloyd Leisure property teams are currently looking at a range of markets in Europe.

Glenn continues; “Key to success is right location. There needs to be a large affluent family population within short distance, along with a local skilled management who can work alongside our strong central teams. With new builds we look for sites of around two hectares, a population of at least 100,000 within 15 minute travel time of the club – or a little bit further if its a tennis club.”

Top of the hit list are Belgium and Spain where the brand already has clubs and is already known, followed by Italy, Germany and Switzerland. “We're looking at clubs in Spain, Belgium and Italy where we already have a presence. Germany is an interesting market, as there is a real gap in the market for family health clubs and there are already many established tennis facilities.”

And what about beyond Europe? Glenn says; “We definitely have the appetite to expand beyond Europe – for the right opportunity in the right location. Cultural barriers are the biggest challenge for us but also our brand is unknown outside of Europe.”

“To make it work, we'd look to collaborate with other existing local businesses to establish ourselves. Family health and fitness is a growing trend globally, and so really there are no limits to the possibilities.”

If you think you have a site that fits the bill, and would like to speak to the David Lloyd Leisure property team, please contact them on property@davidlloyd.co.uk or through Tennis Europe. ●

EVENTS

- Next month's qualifying competition for the US Open will see a number of innovations as organisers experiment with scoreboard clocks to reduce time violations between points. The event will also see players allowed to communicate with coaches from the stands during the match.
- Roland Garros saw an 18% increase in viewers across the continent on Eurosport.
- The ATP World Tour Finals will remain in London until 2020, with Nitto Denko on board as the new title sponsor.
- The Davis Cup by BNP Paribas semi-finals see three European nations in action. Belgium will host Australia on an indoor clay court at the Palais 12 in Brussels, while France hosts Serbia on outdoor clay at the Stade Pierre Mauroy in Lille during the weekend of 15-17 September.

SPONSORSHIP

- Rolex has signed a 10-year deal with the French Tennis Federation to become the title sponsor of the Paris Masters 1000 event. The watchmaker also recently struck a 10-year renewal deal with the Australian Open.
- Novak Djokovic has switched to Lacoste in a deal worth a reported €8 million per year.

FEDERATIONS

- Former David Lloyd Leisure chief Scott Lloyd is the new Chief Executive of the Lawn Tennis Association.
- Fourteen players from 12 countries have been selected to receive the first-ever International Player Grand Slam® Grants financed by the Grand Slam Development Fund. The new programme will provide funding in 2017 of $650,000 to selected players from around the world to contribute towards their competition-related costs with the aim of helping them to develop as professional players and compete in Grand Slam tournaments. The following six men and six women received $50,000 grants: Christian Garin (CHI), Lloyd Harris (RSA), Ilya Ivashka (BLR), Jurabek Karimov (UZB), Duck Hee Lee (KOR), Elias Ymer (SWE), Beatriz Haddad Maia (BRA), Ons Jabeur (TUN), Rebecca Peterson (SWE), Sabina Sharipova (UZB), Viktoriya Tomova (BUL) and Renata Zarazua (MEX). In addition, Jose Statham (NZL) and Abigail Tere-Apisah (PNG) will both receive $25,000 grants as the highest ranked players in the Pacific region, to ensure that at least one player from each region receives a grant.

INJURY WATCH

- World doubles #1 Bethanie Mattek-Sands is expected to miss at least the rest of the season after dislocating her right kneecap and rupturing her patellar tendon during a singles match at Wimbledon.
- Austria's Tamira Paszek has announced that she will be taking an indefinite break from tennis, having been diagnosed with the chronic pain disorder trigeminal neuralgia.

PLAYERS

- Karolina Pliskova has become the 23rd woman – and first Czech – to be ranked as WTA #1.
- Former world #5 Daniela Hantuchova has announced her retirement from professional tennis.
- A number of players teamed up with former greats during Wimbledon. Aside from Garbiñe Muguruza's successful partnership with Conchita Martinez, Yanina Wickmayer worked with Kim Clijsters and Novak Djokovic and Andre Agassi added Mario Ancic to their team for the grass court season.
- Fabio Fognini and Flavia Pennetta recently welcomed the birth of their first child, a boy.
- Roger Federer recently became just the third man to hit 10,000 aces during his career.

Tennis Europe Junior Tour Brand Hub

Many Tennis Europe Junior Tour tournament organisers are already using our customisable free-of-charge Brand Hub tool to promote their events on social media and in print. The range of available assets includes templates for posters, magazine/brochure articles, social media posts (Facebook, Twitter, Instagram), leaflets/flyers and e-mail footers.

Tennis Europe Junior Tour Rankings - Overall

Tennis Europe's junior ranking system is devised to give a unified overall list that shows the relative strengths of all players, regardless of where they achieved their results or picked up points.

A player's overall total includes points from Tennis Europe Junior Tour 16 and 14 & Under events, plus points earned by players in these age categories who participate in ITF Junior Circuit and professional tournaments, all of which are weighted according to their relative strengths. The 14

& Under ranking is still available separately (see next page), as well as being integrated to these overall rankings.

For more information on the rankings system, check out the Tennis Europe Junior Tour Rules and Regulations at www.TennisEurope.org. The 'Race to the Masters' rankings are also available separately, and include points earned exclusively at Tennis Europe Junior Tour events.

SPIN BIG: HEAD'S NEW GRAPHENE TOUCH EXTREME

HEAD's new Graphene Touch Extreme racquet series is all about spin! Thanks to HEAD's state-of-the-art technologies, such as the innovative Graphene Touch for an incredible touch and a solid dampened feel, the new line perfectly combines extreme spin and relentless power for the aggressive baseline tennis player. The completely new dynamic frame construction provides optimal stability and playability. In addition, the new Extreme racquet series features the new funnel grommet technology.
